

NEW OPERA HEARD FIRST TIME AT SEA

Campanini Tries Out "La Nave" on Voyage From Genoa With Musical Finds.

GATTI CASAZZA BACK TOO

Manager of Metropolitan Accompanied by Adam Didur and Moranzoni.

Voyagers by the Italian liner Dante Alighieri, in last night from Genoa, had the unusual fortune to listen, without extra charge, to a rehearsal of the new Italian opera "La Nave," libretto by the revolutionary poet D'Annunzio and music by Montemuzzi. While the ship was in the Adriatic, the Metropolitan Opera Association, general director of the Chicago Opera Association, was the impresario, and the artists included the celebrated Italian soprano, Gatti Casazza, who was in the company on his last voyage to New York. He had been successful.

Signor Campanini will open the season in Chicago on November 15, and in New York at the Lexington Opera House on January 25. He brought with him the new Italian conductor, Teodoro De Angelis, Rona, Raima, a very young tenor, called by the Italians the "new Caruso," and Giacomo Rimini, baritone. Signor Campanini said he expected later to bring to New York a new tenor, Tito Sola, now in South America, and the famous baritone Carlo Galli, who was in this city when a boy. The opera "La Nave" is a dramatic work, the boy has developed, the conductor said, one of the most remarkable voices ever known.

Gatti Casazza, general manager of the Metropolitan Opera Company, also came by the Dante Alighieri, with Adam Didur, basso of the Metropolitan, and Roberto Moranzoni, orchestra conductor. He said he had heard the deep sea rehearsal of "La Nave," but declined to pass opinion upon it.

The two impressions were the greatest that Italy had in years. "Italy is governed entirely by sentiment," said Signor Campanini, "and the nation is full of sentiment. The Italian attitude may be likened to that of a man and woman in love. The man does not stop to ask if it is right, but goes on with it. Italy has ceased to reason and is governed entirely by sentiment."

Signor Campanini said that when he left Italy he looked as if the Government would have to take some drastic action if it intended to get D'Annunzio out of Rome, and if it did take such action a revolution probably would follow.

A son-in-law of D'Annunzio, Silvio Montanarella, who is going around the world on a special mission for his country, arrived by the Dante Alighieri and will stop at the Baltimore. Major Nelson Mills of Westchester, another passenger, for more than two years in charge of the accounts of the American Red Cross in Italy, said the work of the organization practically was finished after an expenditure of $16,000,000.

Most of the 800 seagoing passengers were Italian. Many had gone back to their old homes with their savings.

ings in the hope of living well with small expenditure, as was possible in Italy. They were distinguished and wealthy and many of them were New York the moment they could get passage. They said the food shortage in Italy was worse than they had supposed and the Italian people were suffering. They could teach the American people many tricks of the trade. They reported thousands of other Italian-Americans making efforts to get back to their adopted land.

SUMMER WEATHER RETURNS.

Outdoor Pastimes Enjoyed by All at White Sulphur Springs.

Special Dispatch to The Sun. WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Oct. 3.—A return of summer weather to the Alleghenies finds the large colony here passing the entire day in the open. Tennis courts and golf links were filled with players and a large driving party passed the afternoon visiting points of interest.

MRS. DOWLING WILL ADMINISTER ESTATE

Borough President's Estate $75,000—No Will Found.

Frank L. Dowling, Borough President of Manhattan, who died last week and was buried Tuesday, left personal property not exceeding $75,000 in value and no will disposing of his estate. This fact became known yesterday through the application in the Surrogate's Court on behalf of his widow, Mrs. Kate Dowling, of 334 West Twenty-second street, for letters of administration.

Earlier in the week a petition asking permission to open a safety deposit box held in the name of the late Borough President was granted by the court. Search of the contents of this box failed to disclose a will.

In her petition Mrs. Dowling stated that her husband left no real estate and that the value of his personal property did not exceed $75,000. The next of kin mentioned besides the petitioner are two daughters, Florence and Mrs. Hall, and a son, Frank L. Dowling. The widow furnished a bond for $10,000 for the faithful performance of her duties as administratrix.

By crossing buffalo and domestic cattle he produced a hybrid which he called the catalo and for several years his meat was a feature at sportsmen's banquets. Buffalo Jones himself gained quite a reputation as an after dinner speaker. He used to illustrate his speeches with moving pictures of wild life and to preach the conservation of game. Many of his pictures showed him roping and throwing big game, not only buffalo and deer but various species of the cat tribe as well. The pictures left no doubt of his courage or his skill.

Friend of Roosevelt.

He was a great friend of Col. Theodore Roosevelt, who when he was President made him his special game warden at Yellowstone Park. While in charge Jones improved and increased the buffalo herd there with the result that an act of Congress was passed appropriating money for its further improvement and permanent upkeep.

In 1910 the United States being no longer a sufficiently exciting theatre for the exercise of his huntman's talents, he headed an expedition into Africa. He announced that he would shoot no game except in the emergency of extreme danger and that he would bring back all manner of choice specimens which he and his men would rope and capture alive. He took an outfit of cowboys and cow ponies and was gone two years. He was then 67 years old.
